NOTE

USSR-BERLIN: [The Soviets appeared to be marking time on substance in the four-power ambassadorial advisers' meeting on 30 November and in an informal meeting with British representatives the day before. The Soviet representatives made some effort to clarify aspects of their proposal for a three-part format for a Berlin agreement, but they had nothing new to offer on any substantive issues. Presumably they are awaiting the results of the summit meeting of Warsaw Pact leaders which reportedly will begin in East Berlin today. In fact, the senior Soviet official at the 30 November meeting commented that the situation would be "clearer" in five or six days, and proposed that another advisers' meeting could be arranged at that time.]
